26-403 Beech House Aylestone Lane circa 1935.jpg		26-403 Beech House Aylestone Lane circa 1935 A rear view of Beech House, Aylestone Lane. It was built in 1908 and was the home of John A Broughton of JD Broughton & Sons hosiery manufacturers in Bell Street. In 1946 the house was badly damaged when a Lancaster bomber broke up in a thunder storm and large pieces crashed onto the house and garden. It was demolished in the 1960's and Beech Court built on the site.

In the pony and trap is believed to be the owner, Ambrose Lee, founder of Two Steeples hosiery company. Later owners were Josiah Hincks, solicitor, and A H Broughton, hosiery manufacturer. Curtis Weston House now occupies the site.

30-018 Ambrose Lee's Holmfield House Aylestone Lane Wigston Magna.jpg	Picasa	30-018 Ambrose Lee's Holmfield House Aylestone Lane Wigston Magna This is Homefield in Aylestone Lane, which stood in its own grounds, literally on the bend in Aylestone Lane, on the site of the Curtis Weston Residential Home. This picture is not actually a postcard so there is no clue as to when it was taken except for the clothes worn by those in the trap, which look perhaps 1890s time? These people are very likely members of Ambrose Lee's family, as they owned the house up until the early 1920s. Ambrose was the owner of the large knitwear company which later became Two Steeples Ltd. By 1928 Alonzo Harry Broughton, another notable hosiery manufacturer lived there, but from the middle 1930s to at least 1941 it was the home of the solicitor, Josiah Hincks.

8-19a Bell Street Wigston Magna.jpg		8-19a Bell Street Wigston Magna This building on the left is best known as Shipp's was the original Bell, or Blue Bell Inn, had a very short life, from about 1770, to about 1847. I think it is easy to see why: it was built as a coaching inn in a small way when the Welford road was laid out as a turnpike road in the late eighteenth century and one coach route, at least, followed the road from Leicester to Northampton. But it never had much traffic: the Harborough road was much more popular coach route to Northampton and London: and the coming of the railway in 1840 – from Rugby to Leicester, with a station at what is now South Wigston – killed the Welford road instantly. The Bell faded out about 1847, was remodelled and opened its doors again as a draper's shop. Shipp's was a well know land mark and lasted until the late 1970's.

29-367a Bell Street Wigston Magna 1964.jpg	Mike Forryan	29-367a Bell Street Wigston Magna 1964 Extract from the Oadby and Wigston Express April 1964. The large building in the centre with the oval shaped vehicle entrance was the main building. The three storey property beyond was once a house occupied by the manager, but later used as offices. There is another building behind which survives, and a back entrance drive into Long Street. The family had bought that area to expand & also built the two semis which are now used by the carpet warehouse. There was an old farmhouse on this part previously according to Liz Ward.

On the left (the house set back) used to be Dalby's shop. Next to it (the tall building) is where my Gt Grandfather lived and my Grandfather Oliver was born they were demolished and Hill's factory built there. Further on you can just see the wall of Bell Street School. Hill's factory and school were demolished and Sainsbury's built. Further on is Shipp's shop which was previously the Bluebell Inn . On the right all shops now. In the distance you can just see the old farmhouse to the right of that would be the Queens Head (out of shot). Bell Street is no longer recognisable from this very old image.

This is my copy off the same pic. The people standing are William Findley born 1832 Wigston and Sarah Ann (nee) Folwell born 1832 Fleckney her father John Folwell was from Wigston. One of their sons Arthur Finley married Mary Ann Maria Bolton born in Great Bowden she was my Great Great Aunt. Their children were Ada F Findley 1884 - 1972 married John E Rawson Director of Two Steeples Wigston. Arthur Edmund Findley 1897- 1972 married Edith nee Cox lived at 18 Manor Street and served during WW1 in the Royal Army Medical Corp. Written on the back in my Grandma's handwriting I used to have breakfast here with Eddie Findley's Grandparents (must be Arthur Edmund similar age to my Grandma and they both lived on Manor Street when they were young

The Horse and Trumpet Inn is first mentioned in White's Directory of 1846. The property is without doubt much older. This Inn was built at the side of an ancient footpath which bordered the old village green. It can still be seen running in front of the building, left to right and along an alley way to join up with Newton Lane.

The tall building in this 1960's photograph is believed to have been built as a Quaker chapel. In 1840 it served as a Mechanics Institute and by 1846 was opened as a British School for 100 nonconformist children. These were transferred to Bell Street School in 1873. Thereafter it was used as a private house by the Snowden family. The little workshop in front was used for their needle-making business which had traded in Wigston from about 1913 until the 1920's and 30's. Both were demolished in the early 1970's.

The property on the left with the gable end was an old farm house belonging to Wyggeston Hospital. It stood on Bull Head Street. During the 1920's it housed a farm manager and Albert Shipp lived next door at the main house, no. 86 known as Rowan House. In 1936 Thomas Norman Hill and family lived in the Wyggeston Hospital property and continued there until it was demolished to make way for Kelmars Avenue. Other occupants of Rowan House in the 1930/40's were Phillip J Wacks and later a Mr Roberts. This house happily survived as a private home.

It was strictly a beer house and not a public house. I 1838 Joseph Burkitt - who was also a builder - held the licence, and in 1861 it was the Chamberlain family, followed by the Boothaways. It was demolished around 1910 and AH Broughton hosiery factory built on the site.

8-270 St Wistans House pre 1939 Bull Head Street Wigston Magna.jpg	Lucas Archive	8-270 St Wistans House pre 1939 Bull Head Street Wigston Magna. A 1920's photograph of St Wolstan's House, Church Nook / Bull Head Street, which was built in 1856, replacing an earlier house with extensive cellars on the same site. The estate had been purchased by William Morley, a Nottingham lace manufacturer, in about 1838 when it was occupied by the Eggleston family. It remained in the Morley ownership until William's grandson, also William Morley, died in 1940. During the Second World War it served as a Civil Defence HQ. Today (2005) it is still a private dwelling. The house and its land were separated when the last Mr Morley retired and the farm was then run by others, notably in the 1950/60's by Eric Hall, who lived at 2 Bull Head Street.

Frank Foster took over the business in the mid 1950's and it remained in the family until the property was demolished in 1965 for a road widening scheme. Mr Frank Foster pictured outside the butcher's shop which has stood at the corner of Newton Lane and Bull Head Street Wigston Magna for 60 years. "Levi Sampson's pork butchers which was taken over by Frank Foster. It was to Levi's I used to go on a Saturday when he cooked a leg of pork with stuffing and roast potatoes to take home for dinner. Saturday was the only day you didn't cook. Remember, people used to work five days from 8am to 6pm and on a Saturday 8am to 12 noon. His pork sausages and faggots were lovely. Made and eaten on the same day".

32-428 Firs Farm House 16 Bull Head Street Wigston Magnajpg		32-428 Firs Farm House 16 Bull Head Street Wigston Magnajpg Firs Farm House, 16 Bull Head Street, was built during the 1750's. The land was farmed by James Tabbenner in 1892 and Charles A Willett from at least 1925, and then by his son Charles George Willett. George was gassed during the First World War, leaving him disabled. He was the last farmer in Wigston to use a horse and cart. The ladies outside photographed at this time are Mrs Knight, his sister, and friend Dorothy Page, who both also lived at the property. The site is now a track to Boulter Crescent.

The farmhouse stood next to All Saints Church and was probably built around 1766 when the estate was awarded at enclosure to the third Duke of St Albans, whose grandfather, the first Duke, was a son of Charles I and Nell Gwynne. In 1919 it was bought by Wigston Co-operative Society who farmed the land to extend their milk business.

The Wigston Co-operative Society purchased this land in 1896 and laid out the avenue. They erected ten houses on each side which they retained as an investment and sold the rest as plots to their members. In 1910 they had also built their impressive headquarters on the right-hand corner with Long Street.

Note how the central first floor window has been bricked up to avoid the window tax. On the same theme a slatted opening on the north side of the house once had a notice saying it was a cheese room which exempted it from being liable for duty. The property is now used as a veterinary surgery.

14-043 The Magna Cinema Long Street Wigston Magna - J Colver.jpg	Jim Colver	14-043 The Magna Cinema Long Street Wigston Magna - J Colver Built in Long Street in 1935 by Milford & George Cockcroft, this 1000 seat cinema quickly became a Mecca of entertainment for Wigston and the surrounding villages and stayed so until affordable television and other modern attractions caused attendances to decline. The first film shown at what became known locally as 'The Pictures' starred Gracie Fields in 'Sing As You Go'. This establishment which had given pleasure to countless folk for over 50 years was demolished in 1992. An older depiction of the Magna Cinema by Jim Colver shows the old Co-operative butchers shop next door. A care home was built on the site after demolition. It has manage to incorporate the old Magna Cinema frontage within the modern design and still manages to look superior.

26-091 Village Feast - painting of old Wigston Magna.jpg	Mike Forryan	26-091 Village Feast - painting of old Wigston Magna This picture , the earliest image of Wigston, was painted in 1794 by John Kirk. It is a sort of cartoon and is thought to depict St Wistan's ? Wolstan's Church and a group of merry local celebrating the village feast. The pub building appears to be based upon The Durham Ox, the old gable end being an earlier version which was replaced by brick and slate. Over the door the licencees name is G Guzzelworth.

Threshing (separating the wheat from the chaff) was hard, dusty work before the days of the combine harvester. Here Wilfred and Margaret Kind nee Charles work on the stack while Jack Holland sits on the straw. The dog is no doubt looking for rats which were often disturbed as the stack was dismantled.
32-442 Harvesting along Newton Lane Wigston Magna 2003.jpg		32-442 Harvesting along Newton Lane Wigston Magna 2003 Harvesting in 2003 is a slick operation in comparison, but something of a lonely task with much of the comradeship gone. This scene was taken in fields to the north of Newton Lane.

26-455 Strict Baptist Chapel Frederick Street Wigston Magna c 1947.jpg		26-455 Strict Baptist Chapel Frederick Street Wigston Magna c 1947 This little Strict Baptist chapel stood near the top of Frederick Street. It was built in the 1860's by James Levesley at the rear of his drapery shop premises in Bell Street. Mr Levesley's daughter married her father's apprentice, Samuel Shipp, who in time took over the business. The Chapel was demolished around 1964.
26-458 Wesleyan Methodist Church Frederick Street Wigston Magna c 1913.jpg		26-458 Wesleyan Methodist Church Frederick Street Wigston Magna c 1913 Wesleyan Methodist Church, Frederick Street c 1913. A group was formed around 1820 and built their first church on this site in 1839. In 1885 the present building was constructed at the front of the original, some of which survives. In the 1980's the congregation decided to merge with the Primitive Methodists in Moat Street and this building was sold to the Central Pentecostal Church.

30-010 Gas Works Gas Lane Wigston Magna.jpg	Picasa	30-010 Gas Works Gas Lane Wigston Magna Wigston Gas Works was situated down the appropriately named Gas Lane, off Newgate End. It was founded following a public meeting called in 1857 by Thomas Burgess who lived at The Grange, Wigston Fields & was the chief instigator. It served the district well for 100 years, but was closed in the mid 1950s following Nationalisation, because it was not economically situated to be linked to the grid. W A Evans then used the buildings as a grain store & it later became a carpet warehouse. A big fire, cause unknown, destroyed the works in the late 1960s. Only the gas office, now an attractive bungalow, survives.

8-134 Yates Farm Granville Road Wigston Magna.jpg	Lucas Archive	8-134 Yates Farm Granville Road Wigston Magna. Yeoman's cottage, Granville Road, seen from the rear. It was bought by William Yates in 1892, who ran it as a pig and poultry smallholding. In 1923 it was bought by the current owners of Woodville, next door, who were not too keen on the pigs! It was enlarged and upgraded and a member of their family occupied it. It is now known as The Firs and is in private occupation.

14-220 Leicester Road Wigston Magna.jpg		14-220 Leicester Road Wigston Magna Here the actual shop can be seen at the southern end of Leicester Road between Aylestone Lane and Bell Street, The shop forms one half of a pair established in 1888, with a central gateway which at one time led to the workshop of Thomas Brown, builder, whose cast iron sign is still in place. Mr Cox came from Oadby and his business was described in an 1889 directory as a potato salesman and after that date, as a greengrocer and fruiterer. Happily it remains much the same as it did a hundred years ago. Number 2 is Cox's shop, yard and adjacent archway. This business was started in 1888 and is now thought to be the oldest business in Wigston Magna. Although there are a number of possible options it is believed that the section of Leicester Road from Aylestone Lane to Bell Street was originally called Balle Dyke.

Prettily screened by mature trees, it seems a haven from the noise and bustle of the main road outside. It was built in 1823 as the home of Thomas Burgess, a local wool merchant, who lived here with his wife, Hannah Maria, his four daughters, Louisa, Gulielma, Emma and Maria, and three sons, Theodore, John and Frederic. Records are somewhat indistinct after 1863, but Kelly's Directory for 1928 records a James George Escott living at Wigston Grange. Since 1994, it has been the base of the Institute of Occupational Safety and Health.

26-407 Crompton Cottage 299 Leicester Road Wigston Magna.jpg		26-407 Crompton Cottage 299 Leicester Road Wigston Magna This house was known as Compton Cottage, at 299 Leicester Road, was the home of William Horlock. It was situated on a large plot which he cultivated as a market garden. The site is now occupied by the Wigston Stage Hotel.
26-415 Leicester Road Wigston Magna circa 1960.jpg		26-415 Leicester Road Wigston Magna circa 1960 This house stood on Leicester Road, Wigston Fields, close to the entrance to Fir Tree Close. It is of unusual design and was perhaps built as a gatehouse, the windows to the right offering a good view of travellers approaching from Leicester. It was once the home to the Bliss family but was demolished in the 1970's due to road widening. One side of the property with the arch design survives as a boundary wall to the neighbouring pair of semi-detached houses.

26-424 The Poplars Leicester Road, Wigston Magna circa 1935.jpg		26-424 The Poplars Leicester Road, Wigston Magna circa 1935 The Poplars c. 1935. From the 1930's until 1959 The Poplars was the home of Frank Freer who gave it to the Wigston UDC for community use. He also sold the paddock at the rear to the council, for a nominal cost, for use as a recreation ground. The house was demolished in the 1970's and the Polars Community Centre now occupies the site. It is now called the Freer Community Centre.

The building helpfully displays a date stone showing it was constructed in 1879. In 1881 Frederick Loyley was the licensee. The pub has recently featured in an English Heritage book 'Licensed to Sell' because it had retained an original self-contained room with hatch for outdoor sales. It is also looking very smart after a recent refurbishment.
26-462 The Bell Inn Leicester Road Wigston Magna c 1990.jpg		26-462 The Bell Inn Leicester Road Wigston Magna c 1990 The Bell Inn Leicester Road was first recorded in 1856 as a beer house and garden run by James Tabbener. The Licence is thought to have been moved from the Old Blue Bell in Bell Street. There was once a blacksmith's shop at the rear.

Although it is not known for certain the date the Inn was built there is mention of it in 17th century deeds and it is known that up to 1817 the Inn was known as The Woolpack of which the Dann family were owners for many years. The shuttered windows were an essential of that age for security and warmth, and to prevent the horns of cattle breaking the windows.

		9-114a Co-op House Central Avenue - Long Street Corner Wigston Magna circa 1920 One of the biggest ventures came in 1896 with the purchase of Fullwell Farm, and the development of Central Avenue. The road was laid out and 10 houses built on each side for the Society as an investment, the remaining plots being sold to members for their own housing needs. The farm house survives on Long Street/Central Avenue corner and is used as a surgery by a veterinary practice. In 1910 the prestigious building on the other Long Street/Central Avenue corner was erected. This was the greatest capital commitment to date and was only allowed to go forward after a Special Members' Meeting and a hard fight by the progressive committeemen. It was more a department store and sold drapery & soft furnishings, shoes, ladies outfits & mantles & children's clothes. Above were offices and the Co-operative Hall, scene of many concerts, dances and lectures etc.

15-109 57 Long Street after Midland Bank conversion .jpg		15-109 57 Long Street after Midland Bank conversion 57 Long Street was owned by John William Hassell who lived there and ran his painting and decorating business from there. The earliest mention of the business was in Kelly's Directory of 1916. The property was sold to the Midland Bank circa 1923. The first presence of the Midland Bank in Wigston Magna was in 1919 but this was not at number 57 Long Street but another location nearby. By 1923, showing the rapid success of the venture, Wigston Magna had become a full branch, moving into the specially converted number 57, and opening 10am-3pm each day and IO am-noon on Saturday. The branch became independent in 1938 and closed on 5th August 1988. The Bank moved to Leicester Road and is now the HSBC. The property was demolished and Neville Chadwick Photographers took its place.

Note how the central first floor window has been bricked up to avoid the window tax. On the same theme a slatted opening on the north side of the house once had a notice saying it was a cheese room which exempted it from being liable for duty. The property is now used as a veterinary surgery.

A group of non-conformists existed in Wigston as early as the reign of King Charles I (1625 - 1642). In 1841, the present chapel was built, incorporating brickwork from the earlier building. Nikolaus Pevsner describes it thus:- 'Four bays, two storeys, brick, with round arched windows and a portico in antis with fluted Greek Doric columns. In the foreground, a monument with Neo-Classical sarcophagus to William Pochin 1850'. The Memorial Tomb of William Pochin is inside the railings of the United Reformed Church on Long Street Wigston Magna. This can be seen on the left hand side of the United Reformed Church under the ground floor window. The sarcophagus is of Neoclassical design. The Church and the railings are Grade II Listed but the Tomb is not.

This view of the impressive building was taken in 1970. It is of brick construction with high ceilings and a steep pitched slated roof. The roof is of multiple angles and with a tall metal tower adorning the highest point. The building has been extensively modernised in the early 1990's when the building was taken over by the County Council and used as the County Archive. There are a number of buildings at the rear which are used as storage space. The old school rooms have been converted into public viewing rooms.

A modern picture of the Manor House in Long Street which was built side on to the road probably in the early 1700's and with a smart early nineteenth-century front added about 1820. It was for a long time the home of the Ragg family until the death of John Ragg in 1838. The property has had a number of owners Robert Hames, Dr James D Hulme, Dr John M Longford from the 1920's and his son Dr Patrick Longford from the 1940's. Today it is a private home.

17-067 Kingswood Lodge Long Street Wigston Magn 1960's.jpg		17-067 Kingswood Lodge Long Street Wigston Magn 1960's. Kingswood Lodge Long Street, shown in this 1960's shot taken from All Saints Church tower. It has since lost the attractive gable. Possibly built around 1844 for Augustine Fry, surgeon, it was described in 1859 when sold by his widow as a residence or hunting box with 30 acres of land. It was bought and farmed by Robert J Chambers. By 1908 it was the home of Dr A N Barnley and by 1941 Dr G W Sturgess. to be followed by Dr Cowling. It is now a residential home, although the Bushloe End Surgery occupied part of the site until 2015 when it moved to the new Medical Centre off Station Road.
17-067a Kingswood Lodge Long Street Wigston Magn 1960's.jpg		17-067a Kingswood Lodge Long Street Wigston Magn 1960's Kingswood Lodge is located on the corner of Long Street with Bushloe End. It was built circa 1844 and was described in the sale notice of 1850 as a residence with Hunting Lodge and 30 acres of land. A succession of family lived there including Robert Chambers, Dr A N Barnley , Dr G W Sturgess and Dr Cowling. This view of the property in 1960 still shows the boundary wall which was demolished in the road widening scheme later in the 60's. It is now a residential home although Bushloe End Surgery occupies part of the site. The Surgery moved to a new location on Station Road in 2014.

This specially arranged photograph was most likely taken at the Wigston Feast , first weekend after 1st November – All Saints day, when every butcher in Wigston would be keen to have the best beef for sale during the festivities. The sides of beef set down on the straw would normally be hung in the shop, and this scene is set up purely for photographic reasons. Health and Safety might have had a comment or two! The men in the photograph left to right are Harold Moore, Sidney Cook and Jack Rawlinson. Each subsequently went on to have their own butchery businesses.

She left £3,000, a huge sum in those days, to build and endow them. They were demolished in 1965 and replaced with the present bungalows. The original plaque is retained on the new buildings to remind us of her generosity.

The property was once part of the Wigston Hall Estate & was bought by the Wigston Co-op Society together with the land on which Central Avenue is situated about the end of the last century. The house was retained by the Society for some years & was let to senior employees.

19-379 Co-op building Long Street Wigston Magna circa 1960.jpg		19-379 Co-op building Long Street Wigston Magna circa 1960 One of the biggest ventures came in 1896 with the purchase of Fullwell Farm, and the development of Central Avenue. The road was laid out and 10 houses built on each side for the Society as an investment, the remaining plots being sold to members for their own housing needs. The farm house survives on Long Street/Central Avenue corner and is used as a surgery by a veterinary practice. In 1910 the prestigious building on the other Long Street/Central Avenue corner was erected. This was the greatest capital commitment to date and was only allowed to go forward after a Special Members' Meeting and a hard fight by the progressive committeemen. It was more a department store and sold drapery & soft furnishings, shoes, ladies outfits & mantles & children's clothes. Above were offices and the Co-operative Hall, scene of many concerts, dances and lectures etc.

The shuttered windows were an essential of that age for security and warmth, and to prevent the horns of cattle breaking the windows.

A group of independents were formed as early as 1666 and built their first church in 1731, when they were described as of the Prebyterian persuasion. The church was rebuilt in 1841. It was opened by George Davenport of Oxford, a banker, whose grandfather had been much involved in building the original. The members eventually became Congregationalists and in 1972 joined the United Reformed Church. The tomb to the left of the forecourt is that of William Pochin, the father of H D Pochin.

30-005 Wigston Hall Long Street Wigston Magna.jpg	Picasa	30-005 Wigston Hall Long Street Wigston Magna This one shows Wigston Hall which stood in Long Street opposite the Memorial Park. It was demolished in c.1961 to be replaced by Elizabeth Court flats. It was owned by the Clarke family for many years but when this card was written by "Lizzie" probably in the 1920s it was the home of Mr & Mrs Birkett. Lizzie wrote: "This is where we spent a week with Mr & Mrs Birkett in Leics...Mr. Birkett is head of a boot factory. So was Mr Ben Toone, his father in law, but he died lately. Birketts & Toones lived together in this fine old place, 300 years old. It has lots of grounds, lawn tennis, glass houses, spinney, pond, paddock etc, we were in clover!!! Such nice people, girl of 13 & boy of 9."

After the first world war, this paddock became the Peace Memorial Park. The card is post marked November 1910.

J W N Hassell & Sons were painters & decorators. Sometime around 1927 they moved to Parkside, a little further along Long Street and also had premises at 86-88 Leicester Road.
30-013 Midland Bank corner Long Street & Paddock Street Wigston Magna.jpg	Picasa	30-013 Midland Bank corner Long Street & Paddock Street Wigston Magna In c.1927 the Midland Bank moved to the former Hassell premises at 57 Long Street, having converted it to their requirements & made the upper floor into a flat (I remember it well, I worked there for 8 years, my first job following school!). The bank later of course moved to Leicester Road & is now part of HSBC.

Mere Walk - Road
8-222 Old Mere Road Newton Lane - Paris Boundary c 2000.jpg	Lucas Archive	8-222 Old Mere Road Newton Lane - Paris Boundary c 2000 Jean Lucas walking along The Meres, the old Parish boundary between Wigston and Newton Harcourt. It starts at Newton Harcourt and emerges by the Glen Gorse Golf Club on Glen Road, Oadby. Each year there used to be a Rogation Procession when villagers would bless the crops and walk the boundaries of the parish so that their position would never be forgotten.

8-241a Moat Street Wigston Magna 1920.jpg	Lucas Archive	8-241a Moat Street Wigston Magna 1920 Our first view of Moat Street in the 1920's would have been similar to this with Cross Street on the right and Horsewell Lane on the left. The row of houses on the right are know by locals as 'Peacock Cottages' and opposite them is land that was built on by Heating Elements in the 1950's. In the 1960's Diamond Cottages seen here on the left next to the hedge were demolished and an extension was built for Heating Elements Ltd. The factory has now gone and there is a new Sainsbury store and some housing. Just visible at the top of the hill is All Saint's Church.

It was built most probably a hundred years or so earlier than this for the brick work is considered to be amongst the oldest in Wigston. With the exception of a modernised skittle alley, the buildings to the rear remain intact. The Inn has an old Ice House located on the left hand side of the Inn. The area is now overgrown and the ice house entrance has been covered with wood.

17-076 All Saint's Church 1973 taken from Moat Street.jpg		17-076 All Saint's Church 1973 taken from Moat Street All Saints Church – there are no remains of a pre-conquest building. The present church was built between c. 1280 – 1353 and was heavily restored in Victorian times. Construction was in Enderby granite, with a limestone tower containing at present eight bells. The East window is of five lights with geometrical tracery filled with stained glass in patterns, given by Captain Baddeley of Wigston Hall, as a memorial to his mother, wife and son. Other memorial windows perpetuate the names of Thomas Ingram and his wife and Miss Seddon, many years organist and chorister. The churchyard with its lime trees is enclosed by a granite wall given by Thomas Ingram in Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee Year, though the iron railings that surmounted it were removed during the Second World War. The Domesday Book records that there were both a priest and a clerk in Wigston – possibly there were two separate communities, hence the two Churches.

This one seen here in 1902 was the No 1 branch on the corner of Cedar Avenue. Eileen Goodwin wrote in her "Pleasures of Food" "The Co-op branch in Moat Street was a very busy shop and the venue for our weekly shopping in those days. On Thursdays the shop boy would call for your grocery book and with your order he used to cycle the district. A horse and Cart used to deliver the goods. The service is very much missed by each older generation. A personal service to which everyone looked forward. " The Wigston Co-operative was formed in September 1867 and grew dramatically with stores in Bell Street, Long Street and Moat Street. In 1910 a new central C-operative Society was built in Long Street more of which later.

Properties on either side were demolished with the new houses being built well back from the road frontage. This has left Cromwell Cottage standing proud of the new building line and with the front door opening directly onto the footpath of Moat Street. The building has now been rendered and painted white. The original brick work shows through in places.

19-229 The Cedars Moat Street Wigston Magna.jpg		19-229 The Cedars Moat Street Wigston Magna A modern photograph of The Cedars, Moat Street. The house was probably built by Edward Blunt, surgeon, who was in residence by 1803. Blunts Lane was so named because patients would walk along there to the surgery at the rear. It remained in the family until the late 1860's when following the death of Blunt's son Thomas Edward, also a surgeon, the family left for Leicester and Blaby. For the next forty years it was the home of various high ranking officers from the barracks. By 1925 it was the home and practice of Harry Durrad, a dentist. It continued as a private home until divided into three separate dwellings more recently.

Number 7 Moat Street had two alleyways, one either side of the former Sewell and Thorne's general Store which gave access to a row of cottages known as Barrack Yard. On the left is one of the few remaining Framework knitting shops surviving in Wigston with the distinctive long windows on both floors.

The church has been much enlarged over the years, and in the 1980's underwent a complete transformation of the interior when the Wesleyan Methodist congregation merged with them. It was therefore known as the Wigston Magna Methodist Church, Cross Street.

Receipts for stabling and victuals in church records prove it dates from at least 1680. Noted for the antics of highwayman, George Davenport (1758 - 1797) who was said to have danced 'Astley's Hornpipe' on the roof several times in bravado after having escaped capture. In 1825 the licence was held by William Simpson and the Hurst family in 1854.

This one on Moat Street (incorrectly labelled as Oadby) appears to read Statham or Southam and Son, contractors, builders, joiners. I think there is also a Ghost Sign on the building to the right of Sainsbury's on Bell Street but am not sure what it reads. Are there many other Ghost Signs in Wigston? Maybe they could be recorded in some way before they are lost. The UoL page: http://specialcollections.le.ac.uk/cdm/landingpage/collection/p15407coll4

It was built by John Pochin in 1691 on the rubble foundations of a previous building. The third floor was added in about 1800. It is thought to be the oldest surviving brick building in the area. By 1888 Daniel Johnson was the farmer and it continued as a working farm in the same family until the 1960's. It is now a private house.

		8-255 Yew Tree House Newgate End Wigston Magna. A recent photograph of Yew Tree House, Newgate End, which is Grade II listed and thought to date from the 1790's, with the upper floor added / replaced perhaps about 1820. The yellow bricks were not made locally and were probably brought from London by canal. Bought in 1822 by John Blunt, a surgeon and proprietor of a lunatic asylum, it remained in his family's ownership until 1905 when it was purchased by W J R Pochin from the Manor. It is now a private residence.

The name is thought to mean the knob, i.e. Hill belonging to the squire, in this case the Davenport family who probably owned the farm which was adjacent to their moated manor house to the south of Moat Street. Abraham Forryan bought the farm around 1802 and it remained in the same family for 150 years. The last farmer was Arnold Forryan. The house is now gone and the land forms part of Little Hill housing estate.

31-223 Newton Lane start of the new housing development February 2017.JPG	Tom Molloy	31-223 Newton Lane start of the new housing development February 2017 Sometimes history starts today. Here is day 1 of site clearance for the new housing and light industrial development between Newton Lane and Kilby Bridge. Hedgerows being cleared. Somewhere in here is a pond we knew as 'the bomb hole' (although I have since read that it was not a WW2 bomb crater at all, just a pond - not quite as dramatic). There were large polystyrene panels in the pond that you could float on. I fell in. (I always fell in). Also, I recall a rusty old barn with a loft over there somewhere, with the old haunted Norton House now ruins in the distance. Across Newton Lane, now beneath housing, was a deserted underground bunker full of junk, sheep bones and an old chemical toilet. And this was only in the 80s.

It was built around 1864 but is now derelict, the farm ran from an adjacent new bungalow. From 1766 the farm was Church property and run by tenants, but by 1930 it was in private hands and known as Wigston Lodge, before reverting back to the original name. Farmed since 1964 by the pierce family, it was previously owned by Edgar Smart of Newton Harcourt and the house occupied by an employee.

It was built in 1874 for a manufacturer believed to be named Johnson. From 1915 Walter Mason lived there and by 1930 it was Thomas William Kind. Other occupants are thought to be the Wilfords, and in the 1940's the Harrisons. Farm worker Jack Holland was there before the Bale family, who remain there today. Before the Second World War the farmland was known as Lower Farm and formed part of one estate with Upper Farm.

I was extremely close to her as a child and when we left to come to Australia it was one of the hardest goodbyes. I promised to go back when I was 21 which I did and she also came to Australia a few times the last time in her eighties, she was a plucky lady! She was well known around Wigston and was still going to play bingo right up until she passed away in her nineties.

		22-472 Oadby Road Wigston Magna 1967 Cottages and shop of R H Bilson The shop was on the end of a row of cottages and was on the corner of Oadby Road and Waterloo Street, now Waterloo Crescent. I remember he sold everything from paraffin to pop and newspapers to shoe polish. Reg was always whistling an undefinable tune as he disappeared in and out from the back of the shop fetching whatever you asked for. I can still visualise the shop floor that was regularly repainted Cardinal red. I also remember he opened for an hour around Sunday lunchtime and if I hadn't got quite enough money with me he would say 'bring it in next time Nige'. His son Brian took it on in later years.

26-417 Oadby Lane Wigston Magna circa 1904.jpg		26-417 Oadby Lane Wigston Magna circa 1904 Oadby Lane showing St Wolstan's Church c.1904. The houses between the church and the row of cottages on the left was J T Proctor's home in Burgess Street. He named it Sleaford Villa after the place of his birth. It and the cottages were demolished to make way for the widening of Bull Head Street and associated traffic island.

Note the boundary wall then of brick and the field in the foreground which is now St Wolstan's Close. The little church, the tower of which dates back to the thirteenth or fourteenth century, was originally dedicated to St Wistan but for unknown reasons was changed to St Wolstan's many years ago. When this was discovered in the 1950's it was decided to revert to the original dedication amid much local controversy.
30-003 Oadby Lane, Wigston Magna.jpg	Picasa	T30-003 Oadby Lane, Wigston Magna his one is of Oadby Lane. In the distance there is a post & rail barrier at the side of the lane, suggesting a stream passing under the road, so probably its near the Oadby boundary with the refuse site off to the left.

14-200 Henry Davis Pochin Wigston Magna.jpg	fb	14-200 Henry Davis Pochin Wigston Magna Henry Davis Pochin (1824-1895) was a great-grandson of Henry Davis (Congregational minister 1766-1815). He studied chemistry with the Pharmaceutical Society, moved to Manchester and invented alum cake, used in papermaking and distilled rosin for soaps. He started his own company H D Pochin & Co Ltd which is now split and absorbed into Boots and GSK. He was the director of twenty two other businesses trading in iron, coal, shipbuilding and railways etc. which he turned around and made into limited liability companies. He lived at Bodnant Hall, North Wales and created its gardens now owned by the National Trust.

The doctor was blinded as a young man in a laboratory accident, but still managed to run a successful medical practice in the area for fifty years using an assistant to act as his eyes. Interested in literature, the arts and a keen supporter of loacal sport, he also enjoyed playing bridge, making his own 'Braille' cards by picking the designs out with a pin. Catherine was the widow of James T Cooper, a Lancashire cotton merchant whose father Alfred Cooper lived at Wigston Hall in the 1870's.

26-410 Hiram Abiff Owston (1830-1903).jpg		26-410 Hiram Abiff Owston (1830-1903) Hiram Abiff Owston, a Leicester solicitor who trained under Richard Toller. He became president of the Law Society, director of the Leicester Banking Co. and the Commercial Union Insurance and solicitor to the Grand Union Canal Co. He was also the author of various law books. He helped establish the new church of St Thomas and was a sidesman at All Saints Church, donating the chancel screen there. As well as being a JP and a councillor, Owston was chairman of Wigston UDC. Mother of Pearl mosaics each side of the alter in All Saints were donated by the family in his memory. His name continues today in the legal practice of Harvey Ingram Owston.
26-412 James Hodges and wife Betsy circa 1867.jpg		26-412 James Hodges and wife Betsy circa 1867 James Hodges (1827-1889) and his wife Betsy, nee Phipps, photographed in about 1867 in Pietermaritzburg Natal South Africa, where they had emigrated in 1860. A Carpenter and sawyer, James established a successful business supplying the government with timber, notably the first telegraph poles used there. In 1877 diamonds were discovered at Kimberley and the family trekked north and lived under canvas initially. James' first job was to construct a ladder replacing the ropes then being used. The family returned to Wigston in 1879, probably for safety reasons when the Zulu War broke out.
26-413 John Goodin and wife Martha circa 1860.jpg		26-413 John Goodin and wife Martha circa 1860 ohn Goodin (1824-1906) and his wife Martha, nee Phipps, photographed at the same time as the Hodges. John was also a carpenter and sawyer and they joined the Hodges in South Africa in 1861. The couples were close, the two wives being identical twins. The four remained together in South Africa returning to Wigston in 1879.
26-414 John Thomas Proctor (1846-1932).jpg		26-414 John Thomas Proctor (1846-1932) John Thomas Proctor was a solicitors clerk and worked for A H Burgess a nephew of Thomas Burgess. A devout Wesleyan Methodist, he served as a lay preacher for sixty years. He financially supported the enlargement of the chapel in Frederick Street and is also named on a stone in the wall. He served variously as clerk, secretary and attendance officer to the managers of Wigston School Board, and was founder of the adult school. A talented artist, several of his watercolour scenes of Wigston exist.
26-418 Orson Wright (1853-1913).jpg		26-418 Orson Wright (1853-1913) Orson Wright carpenter cum speculative builder, created whole housing estates in Leicester and beyond but is mainly remembered as the creator of South Wigston.
26-421 Samuel Broughton Matthews (1847-1927).jpg		26-421 Samuel Broughton Matthews (1847-1927) Samuel Broughton Matthews followed his father, also Sameul Matthews, as a stone mason. Many gravestones in the cemetery bear witness to his engraving skills. He was also a plumber, paperhanger, artist and photographer. He was involved in the building of the village hall situated in Frederick Street and was its one and only secretary for sixty years. A lifelong member of the Independant Chapel, Long Street, he was appointed a Trustee in 1890. There is a commemorative window in the chapel describing him as 'teacher superintendant, deacon and treasurer for 60 years'
26-425 Thomas Ingram (1810-1909).jpg		26-425 Thomas Ingram (1810-1909) Thomas Ingram was a Leicester solicitor. He was registrar of the County Court for forty two years. clerk to Billesdon Poor Law Union for fifty five years, solicitor to Wyggeston Hospital Trust for thirty years and served as High Bailiff in 1888. He moved to Wigston in about 1862 and his generous deeds included building a wall, a porch and buying a bell for St Wolstan's Church, plus a window in memory of his parents, a sixth bell, the organ and wall for All Saints. He also gave £1,000 towards the building of St Thoma's Church and later funded the tower, eight bells and organ. His name also continues today in the legal practice of Harvey Ingram Owston.

30-007 J W Clay's car Wigston Magna.jpg		30-007 J W Clay's car Wigston Magna This well decorated car prominently shows John Clay's name so he may well be one of those in the picture. The postcard was sent by Percy Forryan, another local garage owner, & relation of Mike's. Percy says: "Just sending a photo of a decorated cycle-car (Alldays & Onions) which took 1st prize at the Wigston Parade as Tradesman's Turnout. " The names of Centaur Cycles of Coventry & John Bull Tyres are prominently advertised, and would be companies with which John Clay traded. As too was the firm of Alldays & Onions in Birmingham, who were an early manufacturer of motor cars. They made these Cycle-cars which were small lightweight, inexpensive cars popular between c.1910 & the late 1920s. They were rather basic but filled a gap in the market between motor bikes & standard cars which were initially larger, heavier & therefore more expensive.

31-090 Guthlaxton School trip to Dieppe in 1971.JPG	Phil Simpkin	31-090 Guthlaxton School trip to Dieppe in 1971 Just browsing through some old papers and found these little gems from March 1971, and a Guthlaxton trip to Dieppe. I will post as a series with names, where possible - we were all about 15 according to the reports - and images / stories are from the Leicester Mercury on Thursday 18th / Friday 19th March 1971, and Oadby & Wigston Advertiser 19th March 1971... Sadly the original papers are fragmenting, and it will be nice to archive them on this site... Below is the main group picture - names to follow...
31-092 H D Pochin.JPG	fb	31-092 H D Pochin HENRY DAVIS POCHIN Henry Davis Pochin (1824-28 August, 1895), was the son of a yeoman farmer of Leicestershire and attended the United Reform church in Wigston. He served an apprenticeship to James Woolley (1811–1858), a manufacturing chemist in Manchester, and In time Pochin became James Woolley's partner. Woolley died in 1858 and Pochin became the sole proprietor. Pochin is noted for two important inventions. Firstly, he invented a process that enabled white soap to be made and secondly a means of using china clay to create better quality paper. Pochin bought several china clay mines in Cornwall for this purpose. In time H. D. Pochin & Co. became one of the three largest British producers of china clay until they were acquired in 1932 by the English China Clays.

30-014 Thomas Goodin's House Spa Lane Wigston Magna.jpg	Picasa	30-014 Thomas Goodin's House Spa Lane Wigston Magna It stood across Spa Lane (which ended at this point) just beyond the junction with Mowsley End. The wall to the right still stands. It was known as Mowsley House & from c.1880 to the 1940s it was the home of the Goodin family. For many years Thomas Goodin ran a successful ginger beer & aerated water business from the buildings behind, utilising the spring water which gave Spa Lane its name.

Upper Farm Bull Spa Lane Wigston Magna the attached shows my grandfather Oliver Dann standing and Albert Dann his brother. Trisha very kindly gave me the following info.. 'the men are working in what was called the stackyard at Upper Farm. The area is now a part of Fishers Garage. The FWK buildings behind are still there the taller building to the left was AH Broughtons (The Kings Centre) The door in the outbuildings led into a large barn. Ernest Broughton bought Upper Farm c1918 until 1938'
32-426 Upper Farm House Spa Lane Wigston Magna.jpg		32-426 Upper Farm House Spa Lane Wigston Magna A modern photograph of Upper Farm House, Spa Lane, probably built early in the 1700's. Note the interesting brickwork on the corner, rounded at the bottom to deflect knocks from turning wagons, changing at first floor to normal square edge. It was still a working farm until the early 1960's, when Graham Gardner moved to the Cotswolds. It is now occupied as a private house. Note the cottage on the extreme left further up the hill which is an old Wyggeston Hospital property.

It is taken from the top of the orchard where Shearsby Close has since been built. This part has long been a separate dwelling known as The Chestnuts, after two huge chestnut trees in the garden which had to be felled in the 1940's as they became unsafe. Arthur Lee, managing director of Two Steeples, lived there in the 1920 / 30's.

H A Owston bought the house and enlarged it in 1866 upon his marriage. The decoration and furniture are attributed to Christopher Dresser. Fond of horticulture, the gardens were a noted feature, and his interest in drama resulted in the creation of an open air theatre in the grounds. It now houses Oadby & Wigston Borough Council Offices.

26-405 Conduit in the garden of Thomas Ingram Station Road Wigston Magna 1962.jpg		26-405 Conduit in the garden of Thomas Ingram Station Road Wigston Magna 1962 This conduit stood in Leicester Market Place. It housed a water tank to retain water piped from a spring in field near the present Conduit Street. On special occasions the town authorities would substitute ale for the water. It was removed in 1841 and was later brought to Wigston as a feature for Thomas Ingram's garden. It was pictured here in 1962 shortly before demolition.

Note that it is constructed of granite, as are the two church walls he had built, obviously a favourite material. The name was changed to Abington House when inherited by his nephew, the Rev C Mortlock. The house now serves as an annex to Abington School which, together with Guthlaxton and Bushloe Schools, were all built in the grounds.

26-445 John Ray's Fish Bar on the Bank Wigston Magna just before demolition in the 1980's.jpg		26-445 John Ray's Fish Bar on the Bank Wigston Magna just before demolition in the 1980's When VE Day arrived on 8th May 1945 huge celebrations took place in Wigston as elsewhere. People congregated at the Bank and dancing took place. The ATC had used what was later to become John Ray's fish and chip shop as their wartime HQ and they quickly rigged up music to play in the street for the occasion. John Ray opened his shop when he was demobbed after the war. It closed in the 1980's and is pictured here awaiting demolition.

The Hodges returned from South Africa wealthy and built the grocery shop and houses beyond, named Colesberg Cottages, to remind them of South Africa. They ran the shop and Betsy's name over the door. Later proprietors were the Ludlams and more recently Bruce Freckingham. It has now been replaced by a block of flats and modern housing. The Hodges also assisted financially with the rebuilding of the Primitive Methodist Chapel, Moat Street, in 1886, and Betsy has a name stone in the wall.
